MUST AND MUST NOT

By Ruth Taylor

We are all familiar with the phrase, "the have and the have-not nations." It was one of those semi-truths that are the best stock in trade of the pseudo statesman. That it was an effective weapon has been proven. Before the bombs fell at Pearl Harbor, sympathy for the "have-nots," and friendliness toward the self-styled underdogs did much to belud the real issue and to leave us woefully unprepared for the attack of those whom we had pitied.

Now there is another theory abroad in the land. It is that of the "musts and

Increase farm productivity by building improvements with CONCRETE

Farmers today are stepping up production of dairy products, eggs, livestock and other essential foodstuffs. One way to begin the job is to build concrete barn floors, stock feeding floors, poultry house floors, manure pits, storage cellars and other improvements that make your farm more efficient and productive.

All you need are a few sacks of Portland cement, sand, gravel or stone, and some boards for forming. Concrete conserves critical "war materials"; many farm concrete jobs need none.

Economical, life-time concrete improvements cost surprisingly little to build. If you need help, get in touch with your concrete contractor or building material dealer.

For helpful free literature on "how to do it," check list below and mail today.

Having Trouble Getting Help?

So are we. Like you, we're faced with the biggest production job in our history. And, like you, we've lost many of the men who used to help us.

Yet that's only part of the story. Every day, on farm and factory, there's something new to test the skill of those running the business. Not only getting help, but to mention a few others—doing cost accounting, making a fair profit, and setting aside reserves for a rainy day. Essentially, those problems are the same for farm and factory, though they may at times differ in size.

But it is that thing called "management" that peculiarly American ability to think through problems no matter how tough, that is helping to see us through today.

It is this skill in management that farmers and businessmen have most in common. A skill which insures the realization of our determination to produce all that's needed for our country today, and tomorrow, to make a fair living through greater service to our fellow Americans. W. O. MULKEY DIES IN DOTHAN HOSPITAL

Dothan, Ala., July 1.—W. O. Mulkey, 71, died in a Dothan hospital early Wednesday morning following an illness of several days.

Mrs. Mulkey, a prominent lawyer of Geneva for the past 48 years, was a former member of Congress. He was a member of the State Constitution Convention.

Funeral services were held today (Thursday) at 4 p. m. at his home in Geneva with the Rev. A. G. Ellis officiating. Burial followed in the city cemetery.

Surviving are two sons, W. O. Mulkey, Jr., and James Mulkey, both of Geneva; a sister, Mrs. Annie Tew, Banks; and three grandchildren.

SULFUR RECOMMENDED FOR PEANUT DISEASES

Auburn, Ala. — Two of the peanut's worst enemies in the growing season are leafspot disease and leafhoppers, which usually begin to give serious trouble early in July.

Crop specialists say that a copper-sulfur combination is the most effective dust or spray to use. But copper is hard to get now. On the other hand, there is a good supply of sulfur, it's cheaper than the copper-sulfur combination, and the straight sulfur controls leafspot and leafhoppers nearly as well.

About 15 pounds of sulfur dust to the acre will be needed for the first application—and about 20 pounds to the acre for later applications.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for July 11

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 3:1-12

OLD TEST—Come now, therefore, and I will send thee unto Pharaoh, that thou mayest bring forth my people the children of Israel out of Egypt.—Exodus 3:10

GOD CALLS A LEADER

God calls men, commissions, and uses them to carry out His plans and purposes in the earth. What a great truth that is, and how it affects the destiny of man to know that it is divinely appointed.

At Joseph, Parker effectively points out, the experience of Moses in Midian was a direct dealing with God, whereas we who may not be able to "see the fountain" must be content to drink at the stream.

Every man should put to himself the questions. What is my destiny? What does God mean me to be and to do in the world? It is a most pitiable thing that a man should read of Moses being divinely called to a special work, and fail to realize that God has a special work for every man to do. Let us be careful that we do not "see" a servant of God, one who was—

1. Personally Equipped.

While it is a blessed truth that God will use any man who surrenders himself to His control and guidance, no matter how limited that man's ability and training may be, it is also true that, other things being equal, the man with the best equipment will be the most useful servant.

God gave Moses a unique preparation. He was first of all a Hebrew, born among the people that he was to lead. He knew the history and the culture of the people of the Egyptian court (Exodus 2:22), and he spent four years in the school of experience.

We have learned anew from our war experience that training for service is essential. If that is true in military matters and in secular life, it is doubly true in the service of Christ. He does graciously use even the humble and untrained worker, but no one who has a vision of service will be content to remain unprepared.

II. Spiritually Qualified.

Moses was a man who knew God. He had been a worshiper of the true God, and he was a man of prayer. He was only a Hebrew, but he was a man of God. He was a man of faith, and he was a man of love. He was a man of service, and he was a man of sacrifice. He was a man of prayer, and he was a man of love. He was a man of service, and he was a man of sacrifice.

Here God's future leader was made conscious of the infinite majesty and holiness of God, the need of reverence and godly fear, the purpose of the Eternal One to deliver His people, and the assurance that He would be with His servant. Such a spiritual experience made effective the excellent preparation which he already had for service.

All the training and preparation in the world is worse than useless in God's service apart from that spiritual qualification that comes from true regeneration and dedication to Him.

There is no more pathetic sight than a spiritually powerless church worker going through the motions of service for Christ. If we are in that condition we may be sure that we deceive no one but ourselves.

III. Divinely Called.

Moses was called (Ex. 3), commissioned (Ex. 6:10), and clad with divine authority (Ex. 11, 12) for his great task.

God calls His servants to different responsibilities, and in different ways, but the important thing is that we should know that we are in His will and that we are answering His call.

No one has any right to choose full-time Christian service simply as a desirable vocation. In any calling of life man needs God's guidance in order to make a proper choice, but in the ministry or missionary service it is an absolute essential.

If we were more careful to seek His will for every individual there would be less unhappiness in the world. But the case of that one who goes out to speak for God there is not only the danger of distress, but of rejection for himself and those to whom he tries to minister.

Prepared, qualified, and called, Moses is now ready to meet God before he goes on to his life of holy exploits for Him.

Men and women of the Armed Forces, the women's section, which comprises an entire floor of the eight-story building, also features two long lounges—the Mme. Chiang Kai-shek Parlor and the Eleanor Roosevelt Lounge, the latter formally dedicated in Mrs. Roosevelt's presence, where Service women may enjoy grand piano, radio, reading, and writing desks. Other facilities for Service women on this floor include game room for ping pong, billiards, cards, and games; ironing boards; free information, called, to a special work, and fail to realize that God has a special work for every man to do. Let us be careful that we do not "see" a servant of God, one who was—

ALABAMA AUTOISTS TO GET TAGS IN FALL

Alabama motorists are definitely assured of metal automobile tags for 1944. Dr. H. G. Dowling, State Revenue Commissioner, announced this week, following receipt of approval by the War Production Board of use of steel on hand for their manufacture. A single tag to the car will be provided.

This approval has now been received after prolonged negotiation, and Dr. Dowling said that manufacture of tags will start soon at the Kilby plant, with day and night shifts working to have the tags made and distributed by Oct. 1, when they will go on sale in the various probate offices. The color scheme, Dr. Dowling said, will be black numerals and letters on a gold background, the colors of the 1942 tags still in use, reversed.
